Overview A web-based Commercial Umbrella Calculator has been developed to assist the underwriters with manually rating the Commercial Umbrella. The instructions in this job aid illustrate the step by step process when having General Liability and Auto Liability as underlying exposures. Similar steps apply when selecting other underlying coverages during the rating process.

Accounts that qualify for the Businessowners Umbrella rating program are to be rated according to those procedures instead of the steps in this job aid.

New Business and Renewals

Step 1 You can access the calculator by going to PCIO CAPS > Commercial Tools > Commercial Umbrella. This is the only way to access the tool to complete a new business umbrella quote.

If you are completing the calculator for a renewal account, using a Passport macro will open the Commercial Umbrella calculator and put the policy number into the tool for you. First pull up the policy in Passport, then click on Websites at the bottom of the macro keypad. Then from the pop-up window, select 13 – Umbrella Website and click OK.

Step 2

If you opened the Commercial Umbrella calculator via Commercial Tools, the first screen that appears is your sign-on screen.

- Enter your nwie userID and password.
- Press Login.

If you accessed the calculator via the Passport macro, a window will prompt you for your password, then it will log you in and automatically advance you to the next screen for step 3.

Lesson 11.2.1 – Commercial Umbrella Rating Calculator Job Aid

Step 3 Complete the policy general information.

The Policy number needs to be entered as a 10 digit number. This number will be used to search for and retrieve prior umbrella quote data.

When searching for a quote by policy number, the user must either tab or click out of the policy number field into another field in order to complete the search. For renewals, the system will automatically retrieve the prior term data when the renewal selection is made with the renewal policy number.

Make sure the appropriate channel (Exclusive, Independent, or Farm) is selected so that proper rating is used.

Press Continue.

Step 4 On the next screen, select your applicable underlying coverages.

By clicking on any of the coverage names, a help panel will display the minimum underlying limits associated with each of these coverages.

Businessowners – The General Liability selection would be chosen to extend coverage over the Businessowners policy. Any Businessowners Professional coverages which are not separately rated (e.g., Printers E&O) are included in the liability premium and do not need to be selected separately. For Businessowners Professional coverages which are separately rated (e.g., Barbers & Beauticians Professional), the “Other Eligible Professional” option can be used to charge on the Umbrella.

Refer to eLibrary for additional information regarding coverage availability on the Umbrella.

Lesson 11.2.1 – Commercial Umbrella Rating Calculator Job Aid

Once the macro is complete, there will be separate tabs on the bottom of the worksheet for each line of business (GL, Auto). On the GL, the premium will be separated between the Premises/ Operations and Products/Completed Operations. On the BOP, the liability portion of the total BOP premium should be used. This will all be entered under the Premises/ Operations field since the BOP does not give a breakdown between Premises/ Operations and Products/Completed Operations. Premiums for any specialty coverages (D&O, Liquor Liability) should not be included in the premium amount. They will be calculated separately.

[illegible]

Multiple Class Codes

If you have multiple class codes, the class code with the highest premium for both Premises and Products will be identified on the Macro worksheet. Please note that the highest premium class code is not necessarily the class code that should be used to rate the Commercial Umbrella. Once you decide which class code to use in the rating worksheet, you will add the total GL premium from all classifications into the premium field for this classification.

If in doubt as to which class to select, use the highest hazard class as determined by the Increased Limit Factor (ILF) table assignment. The ILFs can be located in the state specific General Liability rules, under Rule 56. (Hint: these factors are programmed into the rating calculator, so you can also enter each of the class codes into the rating calculator to see the table assignment.)

The following examples may help in selecting the appropriate class code.

Lesson 11.2.1 – Commercial Umbrella Rating Calculator Job Aid

Example 1

91341	Carpentry – Interior	3B	$1,000
92478	Electrical Work – Within Buildings	2B	$1,000
In the above example, class 91341 would be used in the Rating Calculator because it is the highest hazard class and the premiums are the same which makes it more difficult to select the principle class. The premiums from both class codes would then be totaled to use in the calculator.

Example 2

94007	Excavation Contractor	2B	$800
92478	Electrical Work – Within Buildings	2B	$1,000
In the above example, class 92478 would be used in the Rating Calculator because it has the highest premium and the ILFs are the same. The premiums from both class codes would then be totaled to use in the calculator.

Exception: If a higher hazard exposure has a minimum impact on premium, the under-writer may use the predominant class code at their own discretion. See Example 3 below.

Example 3

91341	Carpentry – Interior	3B	$2,000
92478	Electrical Work – Within Buildings	2B	$15,000
In the above example, the underwriter may decide to use class 92478 as the predominant classification even though it is a lower hazard as the premium amount indicates it would be the principle class. This is based on underwriter judgment. The premiums from both class codes would then be totaled to use in the calculator

BOP Class Code

All of the Premier Businessowners classifications have been assigned a corresponding ILF table assignment and subsequently have been loaded into the Calculator.

The system will pull the applicable Table value from the BOP or GL class code entered.

The Rate % will default to the pre-determined values.

The XS limit factor will automatically apply if applicable. The underwriter may enter any schedule modification factors for the liability. See the Umbrella rate pages for your state in eLibrary for more detail on the applicability of XS limit factors and schedule mods.

If the insured has a swimming pool, enter the number of pools and the premium for this exposure.

Once the liability information is entered, press Continue.

Note: Some states require the addition of UM/UIM coverage on the Commercial Umbrella by the addition of the UMB 0044. If this is a requirement in your state, the Umb Limits macro will ask you if it will be added while the macro is running. These premiums will then be included with the liability premium.

Breakdown Premiums listed at the bottom must be broken out by the type of vehicle as provided by the macro. For example, if the underwriter has 2 Private Passenger (PPT) and one Light Commercial, they will add the premiums for the 2 PPTs and enter the sum in the appropriate premium field. They will then enter the Light Truck premium in that premium field.

The Rate % and Minimum Premium fields will automatically default to pre-determined values.

The underwriter may enter any schedule modification factors for the auto. See the Umbrella rate pages for your state in eLibrary for more detail on the applicability of schedule mods.
